COMMON SENSE INVESTMENT

Make it a habit to distribute your money among different types of investments. Do not invest all your funds in any one kind of security or in any one section of the country. Remember that diversification is one of the important rules of common sense investment; that it will enable you to obtain a wide-spread interest in the field of conservative investment, and at the same time increase the earning power of your money.

Write for Circular No. 830, "Conservative Investments," which comprises eight pages, and in which we describe Railroad Bonds, Industrial Bonds, Public Utility Bonds, Industrial Bonds and Guaranteed Terminal Bonds.
